“Is your house in order? Being well and loving yourself”

A Gay Men’s Wellness Event

San Francisco, CA--“Is your house in order?”, a gay men’s wellness event, is taking place on Thursday, February 21, from 4:30 p.m. - 7:30 p.m. at the LGBT Center, 1800 Market Street, San Francisco. The event is a collaborative effort between the STD Prevention and Control Division, the HIV Prevention and HIV Research Sections of the SFDPH, and the SFLGBT Center.

The event is intended to:

- foster a greater awareness of the health and wellness needs of gay men
- promote the array of health and community programs available to gay men
- facilitate networking among representatives from all of the different agencies, clinics and community groups serving gay men
- allow for social mixing between providers and the community members they serve.

The evening activities are being organized around “Information Kiosks,” thematic information areas dedicated to mental health, medical health, substance use/treatment, sexual health, living well (alternative health, exercise, nutrition), spirituality, and social opportunities and activities. Community members will be able to interact with representatives from many of the City’s health, wellness and community development providers, agencies and organizations serving gay and bisexual men.

Event planners are hoping that the event will be fun as well as informative for all involved. For more information, please contact the HIV Prevention Section at 415/554-9031.
