

SPARKLE & SHINE: DPH STARS & AWARDS

Staff Awards and Special Recognition

The Department is fortunate to have a deeply committed staff who work hard every day to deliver health services and manage the programs that promote and protect the health of all San Franciscans. Some of our staff are also recipients of special awards and recognition from agencies and professional associations outside of the Department. Here are some highlights of this year's awards.

Sai-Ling Chan-Sew Receives Unconditional Care "Uncie" Award

Sai-Ling Chan-Sew, Director of Children, Youth, and Family services at CBHS received the 2008 Unconditional Care "Uncie" Award. The award was presented by the Seneca Center to honor Dr Chan-Sew's dedication to the quality of care for children, youth, and families.

Rudy Aguilar Honored as a Change Maker

Rudy Aguilar, Community Behavioral Health Services Program Manager, received the 2008 sixth Annual "In the Trenches Award" from the Senior Ex-Offender Program. The annual award recognizes local heroes who provide support to ex-offenders re-entering society. Rudy Aguilar was honored as a Change Maker, for opening doors for those deciding to change their lives when conditions were not always favorable.

Anne Hughes New Investigator Award

Adding to a string of recent honors for her research on the personal impact of serious illness and urban poverty, Laguna Honda clinical nurse specialist Anne Hughes will receive the New Investigator Award from the Hospice and Palliative Nursing Association (HPNA) in March 2009. The award is the latest of several for Hughes, including the 2008 Distinguished Dissertation Award from UCSF School of Nursing, and the 2008 Excellence in Cancer Nursing Research Award from the Oncology Nursing Society.

She has been an advanced practice nurse in palliative care at Laguna Honda since 2000. She is also an associate clinical professor at UCSF as well as a nationally certified family nurse practitioner, an advanced oncology nurse, and AIDS-certified nurse. In 1998 in recognition of her work in HIV/AIDS nationally, Hughes was selected to be a fellow of the American Academy of Nurses.

Alice Gleghorn, PhD Receives Special Public Policy Leader Award

Alice Gleghorn, Ph.D., Deputy Director, Community Behavioral Health Services, DPH, was honored with the Public Policy Leader Award at the Mental Health Association’s 2008 Annual Awards Fundraiser, for her determined efforts in supporting the promise of the Mental Health Services Act. Also honored for their commitment to improve and promote better health and mental health services in our community were the San Francisco Foundation, Kaiser Permanente Northern California Community Benefit Program, and Manuel “Roy” Crew.

Keynote speaker, actress Patty Duke, entertained the audience with a rousing recitation of her own battles with mental illness, all with an ample dosage of hope and good humor. All in all, the evening was a grand celebration of who we are, where we are, and where we’re going.

Community Heroes

Every year, the Crissy Field Center honors Bay Area Community Heroes that work to improve their local environment. Nominations take place each winter and four award recipients are honored in May at the Center's Community Heroes Awards. Karen Cohn & staff at the Children’s Environmental Health Promotion program were chosen as recipients of the 2008 Community Heroes Award.

Program Awards and Special Recognition

Healthy San Francisco Wins CSAC Award

Healthy San Francisco received a California State Association of Counties (CSAC) Merit Award in the 2008 Challenge Awards competition (population category 700,001 and above). There were 225 entries -- 10 Challenge Awards, 35 Merit Awards and 3 Innovation Awards.

SF Behavioral Health Court Receives Best Practices Award

SF Behavioral Health Court (BHC) was recognized in March as the recipient of the 2008 Council on Mentally Ill Offenders (COMIO) Best Practices Award. COMIO is comprised of eleven members, representing the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, the California Department of Mental Health and members of law enforcement, the legislature and the courts. Since 2001, its charge has been to "investigate and promote cost-effective approaches to meeting the long-term needs of adults and juveniles with mental disorders who are likely to become offenders or who have a history of offending."

SF BHC was created in 2002 in response to the increasing numbers of mentally ill defendants cycling through the jails and courts. Through a collaboration between Superior Court, Public Defender's Office, District Attorney's Office, Sheriff's Department, Haight Ashbury Free Clinic's Jail Psychiatric Services (JPS), UCSF's Citywide Case Management, and DPH Community Behavioral Health Services, BHC strives to achieve the following goals: 1) connect criminal defendants who suffer from serious mental illness to treatment services in the community; 2) find appropriate dispositions to the criminal charges that consider the mental illness and the seriousness of the offense; and 3) ensure public safety by decreasing recidivism through appropriate mental health treatment and intensive supervision.

Outcome data show that BHC has reduced the risk of recidivism and violence. An independent evaluation with control group conducted by researchers from University of California San Francisco showed that BHC reduced the risk of new criminal charges by 25 percent, and reduced the risk of violent crimes by 38 percent, for clients who had been enrolled 18 months in the program as compared to other un-enrolled detainees.

LHH Receives Jewish Vocational Services Business Leadership Award

JVS Business Leadership Award – Laguna Honda was named the winner of Jewish Vocational Service's 2008 Business Leadership Award at the organization's annual Strictly Business event in April. The hospital was honored for its dedication to career development for our employees and for providing entry level opportunities for promising candidates who might otherwise be overlooked in a difficult market. The award recognizes businesses who help people overcome barriers to employment in today's competitive market. Previous winners are Macy's West, Wells Fargo, and Kaiser Permanente. In announcing the award, JVS Executive Director Abby Snay commended Laguna Honda's support for the Healthcare Career Ladder Initiative, a project to provide entry-level employees with training opportunities that encourage professional development. Laguna Honda has hired numerous JVS clients into jobs as registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and certified nursing assistants. The 16th annual Business Leadership Awards was attended by over 1,200 Bay Area business and community leaders.

LHH Receives Hobart Jackson Cultural Diversity Award

Laguna Honda Hospital and Rehabilitation Center was selected to receive the prestigious national Hobart Jackson Cultural Diversity Award from the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging (AAHSA) for its significant commitment to cultural diversity and inclusion. The association commended Laguna Honda for its Culturally Effective Healthcare Development Program, part of the "Journey from Institution to Community," that is guiding LHH's transition to its new facilities in 2010. The organization had special praise for the resident participation in the cultural change effort.

Homeless Prenatal Program Honored the 6C- Birth Center Staff

The Homeless Prenatal Program (HPP) honored the 6C-Birth Center nurses at a gala evening of hors d'oeuvres, music and celebration for their commitment to serve and care for homeless pregnant women and their families. Since 1989, HPP has worked to end homelessness and break the cycle of poverty in families. HPP services were once was limited to homeless women living shelters. Today, the program offers support and comprehensive services to the entire family. More than 2,600 homeless families in San Francisco have been cared for by 55 staff members, about 50 percent of whom are formerly homeless mothers themselves. All of the HPP patients deliver their babies at San Francisco General Hospital- Birth Center. In 2007, the Birth Center nurses raised more than $6,000 for HPP through their participation at the San Francisco Marathon.

Employee Recognition Awards 2007 – 08

Throughout the year, the Health Commission recognizes exceptional employees or teams of employees who have demonstrated extraordinary performance on the job. The Employee Recognition Program provides the opportunity for DPH employees to nominate their staff, co-workers or supervisors for this acknowledgment. Winners receive a framed certificate at a Health Commission meeting, and the winner's photo appears on the DPH website. The following are the excellent DPH staff that received awards in FY 2007- 08.
